

Islip, NY – Islip Town Supervisor Phil Nolan and Councilman Steve Flotteron recently attended the opening of the Good Samaritan Hospital Medical Center's Women's Imaging Center in West Islip.

The center will provide Suffolk County's only three dimensional tomosynthesis, which is an advanced mammography technology that identifies breast tissue abnormalities.

"The Good Samaritan Hospital is a great asset to the community," said Supervisor Nolan. "The Women's Imaging Center will allow doctors to find the warning signs of breast cancer and help ensure that we don't lose any more of our family, friends, and neighbors to this terrible disease."
